Retrofits, Upgrades & Additions

With today's rapidly changing technology, automation machines and systems often require system upgrades, part replacements or additional features to stay competitive. MWES offers design and build services for existing systems and equipment. Our extensive experience in various industries gives us a unique ability to assist with these applications.

We have completed hundreds of system and equipment modification projects for customers requiring custom design or build assistance. As with all of our projects, the engineering staff at MWES consults with each customer to thoroughly evaluate the existing operation to determine future functionality.

Our solutions offer enhanced performance, better operation and improved maintainability. Additionally, customers can retain and even increase the value of existing systems without significant investment or downtime.
